Amazing Peace  In this season of many holidays, a recurring theme is peace—both inner peace and peace in the world. The human longing for peace may seem small and muted in a world filled with war-clamor and hostility. Yet peace is real, if often distant; each of us has the capacity to experience peace and birth it into the world. *

TOUCHSTONES
Rev. Dr. Natalie M. Fenimore

Each year as the winter holidays approach—and that is seemingly earlier and earlier each year—I revisit a long cherished resource, the book, Unplug the Christmas Machine, by Jo Robinson and Jean Staeheli. In this book, the authors propose a “Christmas Pledge” which can be adapted to any holiday celebration. The Pledge is this:

Believing in the true spirit of Christmas [the holiday], I commit myself to:
1. Remember those people who truly need my gifts
2. Express my love in more direct ways than gifts
3. Examine my holiday activities in the light of my deepest values
4. Be a peacemaker within my circle of family and friends
5. Rededicate myself to my spiritual growth

This pledge reminds me to consider the gifts I give and the gift of myself which I can offer. I can give things but I can also give the gift of presence and attentiveness and concern.

I can remember to express love with words and actions; remember that love is a verb.

I am reminded that there will be less stress and more enjoyment in the season if I can let go of activities which I only see as obligations, and commit to activities and events which bring meaning, hope, and joy. I can pledge to try to be of service to another person; try to do some small part of healing the world.

I can let peace begin with me; let peace begin at home. I don’t need to win every argument, settle every score, or engage in every disagreement during a holiday gathering.

* Due to COVID and the High Community Transmission Plan for Reopening, Worship Services are live-streamed from the Worship Room until large gatherings are deemed safe again. Live-streams available on uucsr.org/worship, Facebook, and YouTube. Closed captions and podcasts available afterward. Also aired on NSTV.
Remember the value of being a nonjudgmental, listening presence. Can I find ways to hold onto my own truth and integrity in peaceful ways? Take a walk when things get tense or when I need alone time, or to find a space to sing my own song. Reflection time is essential. As is time for rest and renewal. Connect to the spirit, nourish the soul: meditate, pray, sing, dance, nap, kiss a baby (of any age), pet a puppy, curl up with a cat, have a cup of tea, watch an old holiday movie... Look around and find the light in the darkness.

May you “Unplug” and enjoy a holiday season of meaning and wonder and joy.

Rev. Dr. Natalie Fenimore

The Quest
A Message from the President

Two weeks ago, it was disappointing to have to announce that UUCSR would return to online Worship Services due to the increase in Covid transmissions which put Nassau County back into the CDC’s HIGH category. I was also surprised when a member of the congregation then expressed disappointment that UUCSR would be closed.

UUCSR is definitely not closed! We are carrying on all the business, many of the events, and most importantly, most of the spiritual gatherings that all our members depend upon. You only have to look at the calendar in the Quest to see that we are definitely NOT CLOSED.

Although the Sunday Worship Services will not have onsite attendance for the foreseeable future because the transmission rate is so high, the building and grounds remain open daily Sundays through Wednesdays and can hold many small meetings and gatherings. RE will continue onsite in small groups. The Holiday Decorations Party took place onsite on December 5, and the Mitten Tree is standing tall in the Main Lobby waiting for your generous gifts (by December 12). Committees who can meet during the day in groups of 25 or fewer are encouraged to come together in-person and use the multi-platform technology which is now available to reach those not yet ready to meet onsite.

And while you are in the building, please stop to visit with Elaine and Jen and Tammy and all the staff who have been working in the building for these many, many months. Keep some distance and stay masked but a quick thank you for all they have done would be greatly appreciated.

And don’t forget to congratulate Sue Kimler on her 35-year anniversary at UUCSR!

It is wonderful to see each other face-to-face, or mask-to-mask, and although the next three Sunday Services look to be virtual, there will be opportunities to gather together in-person:

- Tuesday, December 21 is the Winter Solstice and there will be an onsite outdoor Service at 3:30 PM. It will also be live-streamed for those at home.
- Friday, December 24 is Christmas Eve and there will be a Carol Service onsite and outdoors at 5:00 PM, also live-streamed and preceded by the Family Service at 3:00 PM via Zoom.

So although UUCSR is still being cautious and careful in how we gather together indoors in large numbers, we are certainly not closed. Please come by and pick a mitten off the Mitten Tree, take a walk down to the pond, or just say hello to the people who have supported us all for these many months. And I hope to see many of you on December 21 and 24, mask-to-mask.

- LIAC is sponsoring a contest in three categories: K–6 and 7–12 students, plus a third for young adults on the theme of “Why Teaching Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Matters to Me.” Submissions may be essays, memes, artwork, or videos. Details and the deadline for submissions will be coming soon. First prize in each category will be $500.

- LIAC will pay half of the $170 registration fee for the first 35 UUs who register for Paula Cole Jones’ January 14–16 Jubilee Three Anti-Racism Training on Zoom. Register HERE.

General Assembly (GA) 101–Part 3, Onsite and Online

All members of UUCSR interested in being considered for delegate status for General Assembly 2022 are required to complete an Application that will be available online and in the Main Lobby the week of December 20, 2021. All first-time attendees are eligible for 100 percent funding for GA Registration. In addition, UUCSR’s GA Delegates receive funding for transportation, housing, and food expenses. Delegates must have been a member of UUCSR for three years (waived for Youth Delegate/Observer). Two members of the same household may not be delegates, nor receive funding; however, one member may be funded as a Delegate and another funded as a Youth Delegate or Youth Observer. A Youth Delegate/Observer is a member of the congregation (a) registered in the Religious Education (RE) program, and (b) recommended by the Minister of Lifespan Religious Education and/or the RE Committee. No more than one Youth Delegate/Observer may be funded from the same household. A youth not in the RE program shall have the opportunity to be a Youth Delegate/Observer upon application to the RE Committee or the Denominational Affairs Committee. Other criteria includes:

a) Evidence of participation in Congregational life by attending Sunday Worship Services, serving on committees or boards, and additional participation.

b) Evidence of interest in the denomination by attending denominational activities, LIAC, and/or other UU-related organizations.

Delegates are expected to attend all five days of GA—beginning with the Opening Ceremony, all General Sessions, mini-assemblies (as necessary), and other related sessions including the final General Session and Closing Ceremony. DAC will provide several orientation/training sessions for delegates.

One of the questions I hear frequently, now that Rev. Jennifer Brower has announced that she will retire on June 30, 2022, is: “What’s next?” This is a question that the Board and ministers have considered in consultation with the UUA Transitions Office. When a long-serving minister retires from a congregation, it’s usual to seek an interim minister to take on the role for a two-year period.

To access the biggest pool of potential interim ministers, UUCSR will follow the UUA’s Interim Search process. The search for an interim minister is a relatively swift process. The timeline in the adjacent column shows the preliminary work of the Board and ministers—discerning the role and responsibilities of the interim position—and, in consultation with members, developing a clear job description.

The Board will do some of the preliminary thinking at its January 22 retreat and then engage with members of the congregation. It’s helpful that this year the Ministry Team is testing the Workplan that the Board and Ministers developed last year; the Workplan reflects a great deal of collaborative thought about the responsibilities of each minister.

Under UUCSR’s Bylaws, the Board will appoint a seven-member Interim Search Committee—probably in March 2022. The committee will submit the UUA application, job description, and compensation information to the UUA Transitions Office.

The UUA gives to all ministers who inquire (via the UUA’s Ministerial Transitions website) the information submitted by UUCSR’s Interim Search Committee. On May 2, 2022, the UUA will send our Search Committee a list of ministers interested in the interim position. A swift round of interviewing ensues, followed by the extension of an offer on May 18. After a background check and contract-signing, the Interim Minister’s name will be announced to the congregation.

Thank You

I enjoyed visiting Shelter Rock in October, and UU Ministry for Earth is lucky to have champions like you! Thank you for your precious gift to support our work! Sending well wishes for a restorative end of year!

All Human, All Equal

On December 10 each year, the world observes Human Rights Day in recognition of the signing of the International Declaration of Human Rights on that date in 1948. For a world worn out by the death and destruction of two world wars, this document provided a way forward, an affirmation of hope that humans could create a world with peace and well-being for all. As an aspirational document, it draws its strength from the fact that it has inspired “more than 60 human rights instruments which together constitute an international standard of human rights.”

Among the 30 rights enumerated in the International Declaration, Article 14 seems to be particularly relevant today: “Everyone has the right to seek and to enjoy in other countries asylum from persecution.”

As migrants are on the move around the world, the daily news is filled with the dangers they face and the difficulties they encounter as they exercise this basic right. Unfortunately, the policies of the present administration are compounding the risks faced by migrants at our southern border.

Immigrant advocates and public health officials are voicing their opposition to the enforcement of Title 42, a section of US law which “allows the US President to prohibit the entry of people or property into the United States whenever the Surgeon General determines that there is a serious danger of the introduction of communicable disease.” This article was invoked by the previous administration to allow the immediate deportation of migrants arriving at the southern border.

The Biden administration is continuing the enforcement of Title 42 even though public health experts have spoken publicly against this policy. According to these experts, there are safe, alternative ways to allow entry to migrants seeking asylum during a pandemic without endangering public health.

Immigrant advocates are also publicly decrying the enforcement of Title 42. As I write this, a group of Catholic nuns is holding a rally across the street from the White House demanding the cessation of this policy which goes against the internationally recognized right “to seek and to enjoy in other countries asylum from persecution.”

This situation provides an opportunity for each of us to speak out in defense of human rights. If you are concerned about Title 42 and wish to communicate those concerns, click HERE to send an email to President Biden using a quick and easy form set up by the Catholic School Social Justice Lobby NETWORK.

As we celebrate Human Rights Day 2021, let us remember the words of Ban Ki-moon, former Secretary General of the UN: “Migration is an expression of the human aspiration for dignity, safety, and a better future. It is part of the social fabric, part of our very make-up as a human family.”
Compass: Navigating the Paths to Liberation

With so much uncertainty in the world, sometimes it can be hard to find one’s bearings. Join us to find our collective “compass” as we explore interdependence as a path to wholeness at a two-day online conference.

This event is for lay leaders, religious professionals, adults, youth, members of congregations, and anyone who is interested in UU theology and practice. UUCSR members who lead boards and committees are especially encouraged to participate. There will be the opportunity to caucus in identity groups: Black, Indigenous, and People of Color, White, LGBTQ, Trans, and People with Disabilities. Rising Appalachia (Trio) will be sharing their wisdom and performing a concert at Compass.

Register here. Registration fees are on a sliding scale, from $25 to $60, based on your ability to pay. Those who pay at the highest level are making a donation to help those in financial need for this event. Please inform Claire Deroche (cderoche@uucsr.org) of your registration so that you may receive further information. For more information, contact Kathy Charles (KCharles@uua.org).

Embodying Wholeness—Children’s Onsite Worship for All Ages

On Sundays at 11:05 AM, RE classes are welcomed into Children’s Worship in the Veatch Ballroom. Any parents/caregivers who wish to join are more than welcome to do so!

Sunday, December 12: Grades 4-6

Carson Jones and George Weisman lead these services in which this year’s RE theme, Embodying Wholeness, is explored. Through story, movement, and song, we celebrate together how it feels to live into our whole selves.

This month’s story, I’m Stretched!, by Julia Cook and Stephanie Dehennin, introduces us to a young girl (and her pet hedgehog!) as she seeks to find ways to manage the stresses of her super-busy, over-scheduled life.

We have some great suggestions of names for our very own plushie RE hedgehog, and we’ll continue to collect ideas this month following the story. Then George will sing a gentle anthem by Olivia Newton-John. Looking forward to experiencing the wholeness of community with you all.

The Beloved Tradition of The Mitten Tree Holiday Gift Drive Is Back Onsite This Year!

The collection of unwrapped toys, games, and gift cards is for the families served by the AIDS Center of Queens County (ACQC). This year, there will be donations to 187 children and youth, ranging from newborns to age 18. Please visit the Mitten Tree in the Main Lobby, Monday–Wednesday, 8:00 AM–5:00 PM and Sunday 8:30 AM–4:00 PM to select mittens labeled with the ages of children for whom you wish to buy gifts, or contact Jessica Pond (jpond@uucsr.org) to reserve mittens in advance. Please bring in your unwrapped gifts labeled with mittens you chose and place them under the Mitten Tree no later than, Sunday, December 12. Thank you all for including families in need in your holiday shopping!

UU Kids Connect Monthly Gathering Spaces Continue Thursday, December 16

Welcome to a World of Possibility! Last month, we packed our bags for our journey, and this month we will be Choosing Companions through playing games, singing songs, and deciding together all the qualities we value most in those with whom we travel.

This fall, UU Kids Connect is the place to be for kids in grades K-8 who want to meet new friends from new places all over North America, share their joys and concerns, show and tell what they’ve been up to, and have FUN!

The UU Kids Connect Team creates a safer online space for social support and spiritual development as kids journey forward through their years.

The UUKC GATHERINGS happen every third Thursday of the month from 7:00–8:00 PM. We meet online and hold space for kids to share their journeys, their favorite things, play games, and experience the support of their faith network in action.

Registration is FREE and open HERE! Please feel free to reach out to Carson Jones at cjones@uucsr.org with any questions.

Soulful Songs and Stories

This holiday season, consider the gifts to accept (the gift you are, the gifts you have). The featured song is “Dummy Juggler,” by Al Carmines, with stories and quotes by Richard Rohr, Jack Kornfeld, and others. Stories by Walt Whitman, Malcolm X, and Diana Butler Bass warn about things masquerading as gifts that you probably should reject. You can also consider the holy right here, right now, in song (a flash mob and two Playing For Change videos) and in a traditional story, “The Rabbi’s Gift.”

Inclusion is part of the story and spirit of the season, and five jazz greats tell us how jazz includes, contrasted with examples of how dogma excludes. Judy Collins leads us out by singing, “Open the door and come on in / I’m so glad to see you my friend.” Have this PDF emailed to you on December 17 by registering with Jessica Pond (Jpond@uucsr.org). The First Lady of Civil Rights

In her heels, pillbox hat, and pointedly obscure countenance, she waited on line to ask for an application to register to vote. After receiving it from the white clerk, she completed the civics test. After waiting on line again, she submitted her application to the clerk. Without looking at it, the clerk told her she failed. When asked for the corrected exam so she could correct any mistakes, she was refused. She got on line again, completed another application, noticing the white folks who paid their $1.50 and got their registrations without difficulty. She submitted the application again and was told she failed again. A third time, the clerk looked right at her while she crumpled the application and threw it in the trash. The last time she tried, she handed a copy of the application with the questions and answers to the clerk, telling her that she would only give her the original while she kept the copy. At that point, the clerk asked her boss and Rosa got her registration after paying $12.50 for all the years she was eligible and didn’t vote. Each time she was denied, I felt the outrage rise. For me, it was one thing to know about the injustice, yet another to experience it with her.

Viscerally, I felt what it was like to use the bus. Rosa waited on line, paid her fare, and had to leave the bus to go outside toward the back entrance where she could then enter when the driver opened the door. In the pouring rain, she waited but the driver didn’t open the door. Catching her umbrella in the door he jammed shut, he left her standing there to walk 5 miles home.

Is it visceral for you yet?

Most of the above details came from a livestream film history program: The Rosa Parks Story. Rosa Louise McCauley Parks (February 4, 1913–October 24, 2005) was an American activist in the civil rights movement best known for her role in the Montgomery bus boycott. The United States Congress has called her “the first lady of civil rights” and “the mother of the freedom movement.”

She refused to get off the bus. Although her husband accused the NAACP of setting her up to do this, they replied that it was her that was leading them. Although terrified, she did it with dignity, courage, grace, and resolve.

Her defiance inspired the black community to boycott the Montgomery buses for over a year. Rosa Parks’ case resulted in a 1956 Supreme Court decision that bus segregation is unconstitutional under the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment to the US Constitution.

Wouldn’t it be great if we could say that there are no longer so many road blocks facing those who wish to vote, or to access their basic rights? December 1 was 66 years since her famous act of defiance. We at UUCSR can be inspired by her courageous stand as we work to counter voter suppression in America.

Air Source Heat Pumps

Geothermal heat pump systems are familiar to most people. They are expensive due to the required network of underground pipes outside the house in addition to the installation of venting ducts inside the house delivering heat to each room.

As a less expensive alternative, member Herb Waldren, installed an air source heat pump in his house that draws air from above the ground. In appearance, the system looks like a typical home air conditioning system. If fact, a heat pump is just an air conditioner working in reverse. As in an air conditioner, a refrigerant is repeatedly evaporated and compressed alternately absorbing and releasing heat. The difference is that for a heat pump, the heat is released inside the house. Air source heat pumps can comfortably heat a home when outside temperatures are as low as 17 degrees Fahrenheit.

Living on Long Island, we have seen the effects of climate change, increasing the severity of storms and floods. We should stop using fossil fuels to heat our homes. Fuel pumps, whether ground or air source, are the sensible alternative.

Electricity is required to operate the heat pump and, at present, that electrical power is generated by burning natural gas. But heat pumps are so efficient that the required electrical energy may be as little as one sixth of the BTUs of home heating you receive. The seasonal energy efficiency rating (SEER) you see on air conditioning units is reflective of this multiplier effect. Additionally, as we transition away from fossil fuels to renewables to generate electricity, the benefit will be greater.

Installation costs for heat pumps vary widely: from a split ventless unit accommodating a single room to a whole house system such as Herb Waldren has. A list of authorized installers is available from PSEG Home Comfort Program.

Weighing against the obvious benefits to the environment, we pay several times more for a unit of electrical energy than we do for an equivalent amount of energy obtained by burning natural gas. You can compensate for much of this by opting for time of use rates from PSEG. Better still, you can install solar panels on the roof of your house. A four to five kilowatt system of panels will offset most or all of the electrical costs for a heat pump.

If you would like more information about heat pumps, contact Herb Waldren or Jim Peters.
