Awakening to Hope Climate change is real, and a real threat. But in small ways all over the planet, people are acting to resist and push back—to renew and restore the Earth. These acts of planetary creativity and vision are cause for awakening to hope. Rev. Mama's Day Mother's Day was begun as "Mother's Day for Peace" in 1870 by Unitarian Julia Ward. She made an "appeal to womanhood throughout the world to unite for peace." With "Mama's Day," we are called to honor all those who "mother" especially those who mentor in the midst of pain, war, and struggle. However imperfect, the effort to nurture life is a spirit-filled journey. *

TOUCHSTONES

Rev. Dr. Natalie Fenimore

It is wonderful to see spring burst out all around us—I am a particular fan of the flowering tree and so am grateful for the cherry tree planted right outside my office window. This spring feels like it has been matching our lives: it gets warm one day and then, just as the jackets are put away, it gets chilly again. It is like that all around—just as we feel we understand the pandemic situation, things change.

While our congregations and communities are moving forward from the isolation of deep pandemic lockdown, we are still not finished with the need for care and caution. There are members who are reporting infections, our area infection rates are increasing a bit—they may go up and down for some time. While there is, of course, no need to panic, we do need to continue to be a community of care and concern. The most vulnerable among us need to know that we are including them in our community—we continue to have live-streamed and zoom services and programs, we welcome mask wearing. Remember that our immune-compromised and elderly friends are at risk; our youngest children still cannot be vaccinated. Our loving community has the capacity to care for all.

And while we might not yet be ready to go full ahead into a post-pandemic world, we can lean into this liminal space. We can think about how we have changed and we can get ready for what is to come. UUCSR is not standing still, we are in motion: Membership Renewal, Strategic Plan, Ministerial Transition, among other efforts. There are long-term plans but also some ways of trying things out now to see if they should be more permanent. Shannon Harper, UUA Regional Staff, calls these try outs, Liminal Action Plans (LAP). A good LAP is:

- Temporary
- Trauma and grief informed
- Responsive
- Relational
- Playful
- Efficient
- Shared
- Forgiving

They write their Statements of Beliefs—Credo Statements—and present them to the congregation in this worship service. We will hear from our curious, talented, and challenging young people. Due to the pandemic, those who were 8th-graders during the pandemic closure have been invited to participate in this service. *

THANK YOU

Claire Bock extends grateful thanks to the Shelter Rock congregation and its Caring Committee for the delicious edible bouquet that arrived to welcome her home after several months at the Glen Cove Center for Rehab. And thank you to the many members, friends, and family for the calls, cards, notes, flowers, snack-treats, and wishes for speedy healing during the long road to recovery from hip and double-femur surgery. Claire welcomes cards, notes, and phone calls; please call ahead if you are considering a home visit.

There is work to do in this liminal time, as Harper says, “during a LAP, it’s important to recover and mentally prepare yourself for the job ahead. It’s also a time to visualize what you want to create and prepare yourself by learning new skills, dusting off old ones, and practice, practice, practice.” May our hearts and minds be compassionate. May we welcome creativity and renewal.

THANK YOU, REV. JENNIFER BROWER

CONGREGATIONAL AFFAIRS

Jana North, President of the Congregation

A Message from the President

It's spring at UUCSR and that means it's time to renew your membership for 2022/23 with a pledge, and to think about how you might get involved in our congregational life in September.

It has always been tricky and somewhat uncomfortable for members to put a dollar amount on what Shelter Rock means to them.

Personally, I have always felt that what I pay for cablevision in my home should not be greater than what I pledge toward my UUCSR life. While binge-watching Bridgerton and Ted Lasso has given me great joy, it does not come close to the feeling of community, spiritually, and service that I get from my connection to UUCSR. Each member must find their own way of determining a meaningful dollar amount that accurately reflects their level of commitment. Our investments allow us to maintain our beautiful property, our extraordinary staff, and be generous in our many philanthropies. Our pledge, however, is a separate and personal statement of what the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Shelter Rock means to each of us and it directly reflects how important we are to each other.

The level of involvement in congregational life is also a very personal choice for every UUCSR member. Attendance at Worship and having children take part in our Religious Education classes may feel like enough connection to Shelter Rock for many right now. After so many months in quarantine, just being back in the building on Sunday can seem like a huge commitment. But now that Zoom has made joining meetings and events so easy, I urge all members to "try out" some of the many, many choices that UUCSR offers for congregational involvement. As a young mother with feminist interests, I began my life at Shelter Rock as a member of Women's Group. I simply started to attend meetings and soon found myself working at events, planning marches, and generally "getting in good trouble," as Rep. John Lewis described it. The community I found there and the friends I made have endured for 30 years. Those women gave me a confidence and respect that have empowered me in all aspects of my life.

There is a sense at Shelter Rock, that the same core group of people make up the committees of the congregation year after year. Newer members have difficulty joining committees "cold turkey" without an invitation or friend to bring them in to a group. So as President of the Congregation who was also once a brand new member, I personally invite you to click on the link of any meetings that interest you. The schedule and link for all meetings and events can be found on page 15 of this Quest and all are open to everyone. We are an extremely lucky congregation in our ability to offer opportunities for involvement in Social Justice, Philanthropy, Worship, Finance, Publicity and Land Management, among many, many others.

Most committees have at least one or two more meetings before we all take a break over the summer. Join a few that interest you, and hopefully that may inspire you to get involved in their work next year. Introduce yourself on Zoom as someone who is interested in finding out about their mission in the congregation and I guarantee you a great conversation. The Board of Trustees meetings are the third Tuesdays and Thursdays of every month and I hope I see some of you there.

So please remember to renew your membership this spring with a thoughtful and meaningful pledge.

UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST VEATCH PROGRAM AT SHELTER ROCK

Joan Minieri, Executive Director

Shelter Rockers in Florida Take Action for Worker Rights

Longtime Veatch grantee, the Coalition of Immokalee Workers \(CIW\), is ramping up its campaign to win rights and dignity for farmworkers. Veatch funding has contributed to the development of the CIW's groundbreaking Fair Food Program, which forges partnerships among farmers, farmworkers, and retail food companies in a model for corporate social accountability.

This program began nearly two decades ago, when the CIW ended a four-year boycott of Taco Bell with the company's commitment to pay "a penny more per pound" for tomatoes toward humane wages and working conditions for migrant workers in the fields who are vulnerable to physical and mental abuse, wage theft, and exploitation. The Fair Food Program now includes all major fast food chains, except for one holdout: Wendy's. On April 2, Shelter Rock members in Florida (pictured below) joined in a march of nearly 800 people to target the Palm Beach offices of Wendy's corporate chairman, Nelson Peltz, for his refusal to join the Fair Food Program. The strong UU delegation was led by Mary Katherine Morn, President of UUSC, a Veatch grantee. Shelter Rock members also were on hand to welcome Gerardo Reyes Chavez to preach a Sunday service at First Unitarian Universalist Congregation of the Palm Beaches in advance of the March.

The CIW reports on the April 2 March, "For more than five hours, a flood of protesters joyously filled the streets of Palm Beach with art, music, and boundless energy. Against a backdrop of a growing human rights crisis in the agricultural industry—including multiple high profile modern-day slavery prosecutions in just the past several months—the marchers posed one simple question of the hamburger giant: Can Wendy's guarantee there is no slavery in its supply chain?"

Carol Garbarino, Marc Mandel,

Many Shelter Rock members at home have supported the CIW over the years, and Veatch staff and Governors who have visited the organization in person return deeply impacted. How wonderful that Shelter Rock connections could come together to support Veatch grantees whose work is so profoundly guided by and reflective of the UU values of human dignity, interconnectedness, and democracy.

Shelter Rockers in action!

The Unitarian Universalist Veatch Program at Shelter Rock provides support for efforts within the religious and spiritual mission of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation at Shelter Rock where their purposes are best served by outside agencies acting under the Veatch Program and the Congregation.

Awakening

What does the idea of "awakening" mean to you?

Join UUCSR members online or onsite for a small-group worship experience. In the "Worship Pod," offered on the last Sunday of each month, those present share brief personal reflections on the month's worship and learning theme—in April, "Awakening."

In this member-led, member-centered worship experience, facilitators introduce participants to a gentle, personal, meaningful, small-group worship experience. With roots in the 16th-century idea that the religious experience is unique to each person, and our UU respect for the search for meaning, the Worship Pod is a simple member-to-member opportunity for worship in the root meaning of the Old English word weorthscipe—to contemplate what is worthy.

Bring your whole self and, in the company of others, reflect upon the meaning of "Awakening."

Easter Eggs as a Symbol of Resistance

Ukrainian American journalist Lev Golinkin was interviewed recently by Amy Goodman on her show, "Democracy Now." It was an in-depth interview in which the journalist detailed the current situation in Ukraine and the events leading up to the war.

The fact that Mr. Golinkin came to the US as a child refugee from the eastern Ukrainian city of Kharkiv gave added weight to his reporting. He explained the subtleties of the history of the current crisis and the meaning of terms that go unremarked in the mainstream media.

However, it was his closing remarks that were really striking. "If you've donated, if you've called your member of Congress, if you've done everything else, if you've helped a refugee, you know what? Then—and if you have a little bit of time, if you want to go against [this war], then learn a little bit about this culture, learn about this land." Mr. Golinkin continued, saying that learning about the history and culture of Ukraine can serve as an antidote to the propaganda being spread by Russia: that Ukraine doesn't exist, it's a backwards area of Russia, and that Ukrainian is not a language, just a dialect.

An article on Ukraine from the Encyclopedia Britannica tells the story of its rich history. Here are some interesting facts about the country gleaned from its pages. After Russia, Ukraine is the largest country on the continent of Europe. The Kyivan Mohyla Academy was established in 1615 and remained an important intellectual center for the Eastern Orthodox world until its closing in 1817. Ukraine has a rich heritage of literature, art, and music. In a referendum held on December 1, 1991, the population of Ukraine voted overwhelmingly for independence.

The season of Easter is actually a good time to learn more about Ukraine. Since before Christian times, the people of Ukraine have had a tradition of decorating eggs called pysanky, with intricate designs and beautiful colors. In the Orthodox Religion, these eggs came to be associated with the new life that is celebrated at Easter.

At the Ukrainian Institute of America in Manhattan, until August 24, 2022, you can enjoy a communal and participatory exhibition of the pysanka. Under the direction of Sofika Zielyk, an ethnographer and pysanka artist, people from around the world are contributing to the exhibition. "Now, more than ever, the decorating of pysanky is considered one of the ways to show that Ukrainian culture exists at a time when the war threatens to destroy sites of Ukrainian culture and heritage. The fragile egg is still here, and we're still here."

DAC General Assembly (GA) 2022 Update

Shelter Rock 2022 GA Delegates continue to prepare for the event in June at the Portland, OR, Convention Center. For personal reasons, Sarah Barbey has withdrawn as a delegate; five members will be attending in person and three delegates will represent UUCSR as virtual delegates.

New DAC Members Needed

As we near the end of this congregational year, it is important to keep the mission of the Denominational Affairs Committee in focus—to keep the congregation informed as to what is happening on the local, state, national, and international levels. This can only be accomplished when all come together to join DAC and help spread the news. Please contact Richard Bock (rbock@optonline.net) for more information.

Long Island Area Council (LIAC) Update

You are reminded of the need for a new DAC Liaison to LIAC. Lynn and Jim Smith have been our DAC Liaisons for the past four years and are ready to pass the torch. Please contact Jim Smith (smithjimvet@gmail.com) for information.

Partner Church Auction: Items Needed

Spring cleaning is the time to decide that you don't need that stuffed moose-head and will donate it to the Partner Church Auction. How about those old thing-a-ma-bobs that you've been moving from room to room; they're collector's items and someone would love to buy them. Donate now! Please contact Barry Nobel (bnobel@nobel.org) to tell him what you have and how you can get it to us! The event is in June and all the monies collected go directly to our Partner Church!

UU@UN Spring Seminar

As we enjoy the lovely weather and the bounties that Spring brings, we hope that you will join us for our local hosting of the UU@UN Intergenerational Spring Seminar in the Art Gallery on Sunday, April 24, 2022, at 12:30 PM. We will be welcoming representatives of the Citizens Climate Lobby and learn the basics of becoming an effective climate advocate through building constructive relationships with elected officials. There will also be an opportunity to consider if climate change and forced migration has inspired you to raise awareness through art.

Learn about ways to engage as citizens to advance federal climate solutions in line with Unitarian Universalist Principles. Ann Perry and Nadine Sapirman are the co-leaders of the national Unitarian Universalist Action Team in Citizens' Climate Lobby. They will share the inspiring and hopeful message of ways to make a meaningful difference in addressing climate change, whether you can give five minutes, or five hours, a month, or more!!

A Pictorial Chronicle of the Great Pandemic

I remember as a kid looking forward to Wednesday afternoons, when the Saturday Evening Post would come. (Saturday Evening Post on Wednesday? Another grown-up mixup). The Post had wonderful cover illustrations, often by Norman Rockwell himself.

That illustrative tradition has largely died out, but there is one stalwart left standing: The New Yorker. With the onset of the COVID pandemic, the magazine lost no time in chronicling the human moments of this world-upside-down period. I made a point of collecting some of the best.

As the first exhibit since the start of the pandemic shutdown, the Art Committee has mounted a sixteen-image collection of these real (done by New Yorker's staff artists and regular contributors) and faux (done by illustration students at the School of Visual Arts) New Yorker-style covers. Some are warmly humorous, some are lump-in-the-throat poignant.

The exhibit is scheduled to remain up in the UUCSR Art Gallery throughout April, 2022.

Earth Day and Hope 2022

Earth Day is quickly approaching on Friday, April 22, 2022. To celebrate, there will be a Worship Service on Sunday, April 24, called Awakening to Hope. At 12:30 PM, there will be a guided tour of the UUCSR gardens and woods, weather permitting, for anyone interested. We will meet in the Lobby. The global community will also commemorate this day with specific events and speeches, embracing truths, and celebrating successes and hopes for the future.

In the US, President Biden rejoined the Paris Climate Agreement so that we could advance clean energy efforts in agreement with other nations. The UN Climate Change Conference-COP 21 presented global climate solutions. These are long-term goals to limit the Earth's temperature to below 1.5 C, to review cutting emissions, and to provide developing finances to do similarly. President Biden announced a Build Back Better agenda, a legislative framework that includes funds to reduce the effects of climate change.

Solar, wind, geothermal, heat pumps, and hydroelectric plants are proliferating everywhere. Reliance on the fossil fuel infrastructure is being replaced with this clean, renewable energy. Jobs are being created as biodiversity is being given a second chance to survive along with humans. There is also a 30x30 plan being promoted by the Natural Resources Defense Council. It seeks to save at least 30 percent of our oceans from the garbage and plastic pollution destroying aquatic life and once-healthy waters. It is hoped that by the year 2030, nations will no longer allow trash to be thrown away heedlessly and instead, reduce, recycle, and repurpose it. Passing laws asking citizens to comply is vital to this effort. In New York, plastic bags are banned when food shopping.

In The Book of HOPE by Jane Goodall, the world's most famous living naturalist, she points out a story from the World Trade Center tragedy. It is about the Survivor Tree, a Callery pear tree, virtually destroyed except for its roots and trunk crushed in-between black cement with one branch left. A young woman begged to save the tree and bring it back to health. It was taken to a nursery and eventually grew strong and replanted and blooming. Goodall says "When you give her a chance, nature returns."

The world is creating positive ways to restore our eco-systems. Every species has a vital role to play in earth's tapestry of life as we continue to move forward in positive actions and necessary laws.

Embodying Wholeness—Children's Worship for All Ages

Sunday, May 1, 2022 | 11:05 AM

Butterflies, Kindergarten, and Grades 1–3 RE Classes are welcomed into Children's Worship in the Chapel, and any parents/caregivers and other grown-ups who wish to join us are more than welcome to do so!

Please remember, we need to be masked while singing, so please bring your masks to wear over your mouth and nose so we can hear all your beautiful voices!

Jessica Pond and George Weisman lead this service where we will explore this year's RE theme, Embodying Wholeness. Through story, movement, and music, we will celebrate together how it feels to live into our whole selves.

In this final story of the year, we'll meet The Girl Who Thought in Pictures, The Story of Dr. Temple Grandin, written by Julia Finley Mosca and illustrated by Daniel Rieley. Temple's brain works differently than the other kids around her. She learns differently, she communicates differently, and her thoughts don't come out in words or speech, but pictures. She struggles in school, and when she moves from the city to spend time with relatives on their farm, she forms empathetic bonds with all the animals. This inspires Temple to invent a way for the animals to live happier lives, which brings her greater fulfillment and purpose as well!

Then we'll draw our own pictures of what change we wish to make in the world that would make us and everyone happy, and George will perform an inspiring anthem by Natalie Merchant. Looking forward to experiencing the wholeness of community with you all.

Unitarian Universalist Faith in Action Student Internships for Long Island UU Youth

The Student Activity Fund (SAF) is sponsored by the Long Island Area Council of UU Congregations (LIAC) and funded by the UU Veatch Program at Shelter Rock.

The Student Activity Fund is accepting applications for its 49th-annual internship program. SAF encourages young UUs to live their religious values through internships at nonprofit agencies that focus on social action, advocacy, or social services. Past interns have worked for get-out-the-vote and civil rights campaigns, food pantries, environmental centers, music therapy programs, sustainable living think tanks, and more.

Eligibility

To apply for this year's SAF internship program, the participant must be:

- a member or a child of a member in good standing at a LIAC UU congregation
 - under the age of 25 on June 1, 2022
- AND one of the following:
- a high school senior in fall 2022
 - an undergraduate college or continuing-education student
 - a gap-year student
 - a spring 2022 college graduate

Paid Internship

The SAF program pays interns $13 an hour of service for senior high school students and $15 an hour for college and continuing-education students. Awards are nontaxable and are not subject to social security withholding. The internships do not have to be on Long Island, and they can be online or in-person.

Time Commitment

SAF interns may work up to 35 hours per week, for as many weeks as their schedule permits during summer. Accepted applicants must attend an Orientation/Leadership Workshop on Zoom on Saturday, May 21, 2022, 1–3:30 PM.

WOMEN'S GROUP

Maria Ceraulo, Chair, Women's Issues

Still—She Rose

A vicious fight—she rose. Efforts to derail her nomination—she was confirmed to the Supreme Court. Even accused of coddling criminals, a 53-47 vote was in her favor. Offensive questioning and she marked how far the country has come by being the first black woman that will sit on the Supreme Court. Yes, she rose.

As I'm sure many of you have, I watched the confirmation hearings. Although there was so much to be offended and embarrassed by a process that allowed such degrading questions and comments, Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson received a standing ovation and cheers after the vote. Facing outright hostility, questions about her religion, critical race theory, and even the definition of a woman, she remained poised, measured in her responses, and respectful in the face of such disrespect. She rose. As her family watched, she maintained her dignity while the others couldn't or wouldn't. She rose. After her confirmation, she fought back tears. Referring to her own family, she said, "It took just one generation to go from segregation to the Supreme Court. Although it took 232 years, and 115 prior appointments for a black woman to be selected to serve on the Supreme Court, we made it." I'm sure we agree with her when she said that it's a moment the entire country can take great pride. All of us. All of us rose with her.

Judge Brown quoted Maya Angelou: "I am the dream and the hope of the slave." Her quote led me back to the poem by Maya Angelou: "Still I Rise." I reacquainted myself with it and these lines: "You may shoot me with your words; You may cut me with your eyes; You may kill me with your hatefulness, but still, like air, I rise." As I listened to her during the hearings, I remembered a little black, disabled girl who had so very little to hope for in her life. I remember giving her a copy of this poem, a copy to keep, to inspire her, and treasure. Many years later, I learned that she became a writer. Like the poem, she rose. I imagine that she must be rejoicing at this news, and maybe even remembering the poem.

Judge Brown and President Biden watched the vote together. A historic first, he appointed a black woman to the Supreme Court, as he promised. Some thought it was a major achievement for him. At the news of her confirmation, he said: "This is gonna let so much sun shine on so many young women, so many young black men, so many minorities." I know it will do that.

Although it's not expected that her presence will dramatically change the right-turn the court appears to be taking, it will be a part of the dissent. Fondly, I recall Ruth Bader Ginsberg's often quoted, "I dissent." We may expect to hear a lot more of this. "Still I Rise" gives me hope and assurance that all of us can and will, rise with her.
