The Rev. Ned Wight
“For All the Saints”

Veneration of saints has not played a big role in Unitarian Universalist piety—although we certainly do lift up the life and example of women and men who have had significant positive influence on our faith tradition and on society over our long history. Who might some of our UU saints be . . . and how does their example touch us? Rev. Ned will explore these questions as All Saints Day, November 1, approaches. Since this is the Sunday closest to Halloween (the eve of All Saints Day), costumes are welcome. We will also have a brief ceremony of dedication for new bricks in the Remembrance Garden immediately after the service.

Julie Burkhart, Executive Director, Trust Women
“Perseverance in Troubling Social and Political Times”

Julie Burkhart, is the founder and CEO of Trust Women, dedicated to protecting—through direct services, communications and advocacy— the rights of pregnant women. (Trust Women received a UUCSR Large Grant in 2016.) Ms. Burkhart will consider the ramifications of restrictive laws and institutions surrounding reproductive health care, including abortion, and how these challenges affect women on the ground in the Midwest and South. What is the prescription for hope and how can we persevere in this new political era?

TOUCHSTONES
Rev. Ned Wight

Listen! I will be honest with you. I do not offer the old smooth prizes, but offer rough new prizes. These are the days that must happen to you. You shall not heap up what is called riches, you shall scatter with lavish hand all that you earn or achieve. However sweet these laid up stores, however convenient this dwelling, we cannot remain here. However shelter’d this port and however calm these waters, we must not anchor here. However welcome the hospitality that surrounds us, we are permitted to receive it but a little while.

-Walt Whitman

We are on an adventure together.

It’s an adventure of self-discovery . . . and of imagination.

Who are we as a congregation? What do we want to become? And what will we need to realize our dreams?

We are at the beginning of the second year of transition from the congregation we had become between 1941 and 2016, and the congregation we aspire to be in 2018 and beyond. We’re in what’s sometimes called “liminal” space—at the threshold between the security of the familiar, the congregation in which we feel comfortable and at home, and the congregation we aspire to become, without knowing exactly what we want or how we’ll get there.

I’m a “liminal leader”—familiar to many of you because of my 10 years as the Executive Director of the congregation’s Veatch Program (and one year as your Interim Senior Minister)—but unfamiliar to you as a transitional leader. I’ll be with you for a limited period of time. Our task is to make the most of that time.

Over the past 12 months, much of our attention as a congregation has been directed within.

We recollected milestones from the congregation’s first 75 years: four families gathering to guarantee liberal religious education for their children in the 1940s, expansion into a new building on Plandome Road in the 1950s, social activism for civil rights and peace in the 1960s, consolidating professional grantmaking to Continued page 2 support social change through the Veatch Program in the 1970s, envisioning congregational expansion in the 1980s, moving to the Shelter Rock campus in the 1990s, calling two new ministers and expanding programming in the 2000s, and now, having called one new minister and blessing another as he retired, looking toward the congregation’s future.

We’ve also been engaged in tussles and disagreements over significant matters of institutional governance and decision-making: authorizing the creation of a Limited Liability Company (LLC) to oversee Hadley House; designating an Outside Chief Investment Officer (OCIO) to better oversee management of our investments; determining when the Board makes decisions with or without a vote of the congregation. These are ongoing tasks, some of which we expect to be fully implemented this year or next.

It is my hope that in the months ahead we can begin to focus more of our Board and Congregational vision and energy on the future of the congregation. We have been blessed with extraordinary financial and other material resources, including our huge endowment, our beautiful 100-acre campus, our spacious physical plant—and, most importantly—the amazing people who constitute our membership and staff. How might we best deploy these extraordinary resources to make an extraordinary difference to the world in the years ahead?

Change begins with vision. I invite you to work with the Ministry Team, the Board and other lay leaders this year to spell out our vision for UUCSR at 2020 and beyond. What differences do we want to make … in our hearts … in our households … more widely here on Long Island … in Metro NY … in the country … around the world? I’ll be working with members of my Transition Team—Terry Bain, Anita Feldman, Rich Guilbert, Brian Muellers, Rebecca Smith, Amit Sur—and with the Ministry Team, Senior Staff and Board to lay out a plan that includes opportunities for all of us to share what we value in the congregation and our vision for the congregation’s future.

Let’s make the most of the time we have together. The future of this congregation depends upon all of us.

Cheer and blessings, Rev. Ned

Two Veatch Grantees Win MacArthur “Genius” Awards

The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation recently awarded its annual “genius grants” to 24 people around the country. Recipients of the $625,000 awards are selected based on “exceptional creativity” and the promise and potential for important advances in subsequent work. This year, not one – but two – Veatch grantees were chosen.

The first is Cristina Jimenez, Founder and Director of United We Dream, whom you may recall from Veatch Weekends past. United We Dream has been at the forefront of the fight for legal status for a generation of young people who have grown up in this country, many of whom have undocumented parents. It was instrumental in pressuring the Obama administration in 2012 to create the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) program. With Cristina as its leader, and largely led by young Latinos, United We Dream has also served to rally Latinos in the country and increase their political engagement.

Upon winning the award, Cristina said “I immediately thought about my family and the sacrifice and their courage to leave everything behind to come to this country seeking a better life… To me, this award recognizes their strength, their resilience and makes me completely thankful to my parents…”

The second winner is Greg Asbed, co-founder of the Coalition of Immokalee Workers (CIW), a Veatch grantee that has combated injustices in the tomato-growing industry and, through its Fair Food Program, uses the purchasing power of brands to compel growers to improve farm workers’ working conditions. CIW’s work has been recognized for putting an end to forced labor and sexual violence against women in the fields.

Both the garment industry and the dairy industry have adopted CIW’s “worker-driven social responsibility” model, where workers play a leading role in establishing work condition standards. Asbed is working with growers in Texas and believes that the model could also address such issues as child labor in Africa.

Of being awarded a “genius” grant Asbed says, “This grant is going to help us expand the Fair Food Program and it will also help us expand the awareness of the model… This incredible new paradigm has been proven to protect worker rights better than anything else that has come before. This is going to change people’s lives immeasurably.”

Both Cristina Jimenez and Greg Asbed are fierce visionaries, facing down defining political struggles in this moment. And, they are not the first Veatch grantees to win MacArthur “genius grants.” As recent as last year, Ai Jen Poo, of the National Domestic Workers won a MacArthur.

According to a representative from the MacArthur Fellows Program, “From transforming conditions for low-wage workers to identifying security vulnerabilities, from celebrating African American string band tradition to designing resilient urban habitats, these new MacArthur fellows bring their exceptional creativity to diverse people, places and social challenges. Their work gives us reason for optimism and inspires us all.”

ART COMMITTEE
Speaking Truth to Power

If you attended Worship on Sunday, October 15, you know that Rev. Natalie Fenimore gave an inspiring sermon on our October theme, “Speaking Truth to Power.” This is the monthly theme in our Worth and Dignity for All campaign. I would like to pick up a few threads from her sermon and apply them to two upcoming events.

As Rev. Fenimore said, there are many ways to speak truth to power. The most inspiring example of this action that I have witnessed occurred when I was living in La Paz, Bolivia in 1990. That October and November, I read the daily accounts of a group of 700 indigenous people who were making the 400-mile trek from Trinidad in the Bolivian lowlands to the capital, La Paz, in the Andes mountains, 12,500 feet above sea level. When the group reached the outskirts of La Paz, I was fortunate enough to join the crowds that went out to meet them. They stayed in the city for several weeks while their elders met with government officials. They only left when the government agreed to their demand to prohibit logging in their territories.

October 29 is the 5th anniversary of Super Storm Sandy. I’m sure that each of us who endured that storm has specific memories that bring the event back again. For me it was witnessing the devastation in Long Beach where many of us volunteered in the days and weeks after the storm.

Five years have passed and according to Newsday, of the 11,000 LI homes eligible for repair through the NY Rising recovery program, 3,400 still aren’t fully repaired, and of the 3,500 NY homes slated to be elevated, only 1,300 have completed the process.

Though our marches will not be as arduous as that of the indigenous Bolivians, march we must! On the anniversary weekend, New Yorkers will remember Sandy and demand a full recovery. On Saturday, October 28 from 11:00 AM to 3:00 PM, New Yorkers will March for Climate Justice by walking from Cadman Plaza in Brooklyn across the Brooklyn Bridge for a rally at the Smith NYCHA Houses, which were heavily affected by Super Storm Sandy. To march with members of UUCSR, contact Social Justice Coordinator, Claire Deroche at 516.472.2977 or cderoche@uucsr.org RSVP at https://sandy5.org/ to attend the march and receive updated info on the route, time, table, speakers and activities.

On Sunday, October 29, from 2:00 PM to 4:00 PM, Long Islanders will March for Climate Justice, gathering at Venetian Shores Park, 850 Venetian Blvd, Lindenhurst, NY. There will be a vigil and a walking tour of the surrounding neighborhood, followed by a rally. You can register for this event at rmadden@lipc.org.

To travel to this event together with members of UUCSR, contact Social Justice Coordinator, Claire Deroche at 516.472.2977 or cderoche@uucsr.org

In a Huffington Post article*, Judith Sherwin, Attorney at Law and Adjunct Professor at Loyola School of Law, writes that speaking truth to power “is a powerful, nonviolent challenge to injustice and unbridled totalitarian forces, often perpetuated by government, sometimes not. Sir Thomas More did it at the cost of his life when he spoke truth to power against King Henry VIII; Martin Luther King Jr. did it at the cost of his freedom when he ended up in the Birmingham jail and eventually at the cost of his life.” Will you join others to speak truth to power by marching on October 28 and 29? Will you march to show our elected officials that we have not forgotten? Will you march to demand justice for the people and communities still suffering? Will you march to demand a just future for all?

OPPORTUNITIES FOR GIVING

The Social Justice Committee of UUCSR sponsors several ways for members of the congregation to meet the needs of others for food and clothing. Members can participate in monthly cooking for guests of the shelters run by the Interfaith Nutrition Network. Members can donate non-perishable food for our own congregational pantry located in the hall by the side entrance to the main kitchen and for local food pantries. Donations of gently used clothing benefit our own members through a clothing rack next to the congregational pantry, and men, women, and children served by United Veterans Beacon House. Please see the flyer on the table in the main lobby for complete details.

SOCIALLY RESPONSIBLE INVESTMENTS (SRI)

The Socially Responsible Investment Sub-committee (SRI) invests in the initiatives of the Cooperative Fund of New England (CFNE). Their development work is exciting and spreads our impact to numerous communities in New England and New York. The organization invests in cooperatives, community development and worker-owned business in low-income communities. CFNE provides financial products at reasonable rates, develops business skills with their recipients and spurs investment opportunities in a wide variety of initiatives.

Click on their website http://www.cooperativefund.org/ for a quick preview of the wide-ranging impact of the organization from facilitating farming, solar panel development, tech entrepreneurship, and healthy food support.

CFNE has played a leading role in financing the Northeast’s cooperative food movement. As a CDFI, it has served as a financer, lender, and advisor to nearly every food co-op in the area. Check them out on Facebook, too!

7:30 PM • Social Hall
Again, and again, and yet again, we are blessed with new members.

I am very pleased to introduce Joanna Cohen and Dr. Wendy Keiser, who linked their quests with ours some time back, last April 9th and 30th, respectively. The following summations are abbreviated, and my apologies that due to space constraints, we miss some intriguing information.

Joanna is from Mineola, Long Island, and attended Skidmore College upstate, law school in New York City. Her father is Jewish, and her mother was raised Lutheran, converting to Judaism when she married. Joanna’s sister and she were Bat Mitzvahs, but the families celebrated Christian as well as Jewish holidays. Joanna’s own words express her religious outlook eloquently and vividly...

“I have never felt only one religion… I have always wanted to honor my Jewish heritage as well as my German and Italian heritages. A Minister once told my mom and her family - it does not matter whether you learn to swim in an ocean, a lake, a pool, or a river, what is important is that you learn to swim. … I feel comfortable with people of all religions. Today, I identify as both Unitarian Universalist and Jewish, and I am grateful for my multi-religious upbringing.”

Joanna as a child attended the UU Congregation of Central Nassau, where she received her religious education.

Joanna loves to draw, which she finds a creative outlet balancing her career as a health care lawyer. She also loves running, tennis, and hiking, and regards travel as “good for the soul.”

As to Unitarian Universalism, she is most attracted to how open-minded and welcoming the religious approach is. She has found services at UUCSR inspiring, moving, and meaningful, and she appreciates the commitment here to Social Justice. She feels grateful to be part of this congregation. Joanna, I speak for others in saying, we are very grateful you are with us!

I also heartily welcome Dr. Wendy Keiser! Wendy was raised Reformed Protestant Huguenot. She went to a Presbyterian church for awhile with her children, where she was an ordained elder and clerk of session for a few years. (She adds a word which I won’t print here.)

With her daughter agnostic and her son atheist, Wendy wanted a religious community where she could comfortably participate with her children.

She was invited to a Women’s Group event years ago, and brought her kids to sit in the Lobby. They loved it here, and begged to come back. Wendy has enjoyed attending as well. She says she joined, “because she’s a joiner.”

She is an avid Yoga practitioner, and has other hobbies, to which she can’t devote sufficient time. It is a delight to have her with us.

Personal note: I am behind with Lobby displays of recent members, and have as a non-new-year resolution to address that deficit.

To quote Rev. Ned Wight, Cheer and Blessing, Ben

HOSPITALITY HINTS

So you approach someone you don’t recognize before or after the Sunday service, and ask, “Are you here for the first time?” The person answers, “I’ve been a member for 34 years.”

No need to feel embarrassed! How many of us know everyone’s name in the Directory (there are about 675 members), can associate that name with a face, and know how long the person has been a member?

Best just to say something like, “Congratulations! And I’m sorry. Nice to meet you, I’m ….” Or you may have better words.

The specific situation is emblematic of a more general challenge… what to do when in an awkward interaction. The best I can say is not inwardly to engage in excessive self-blame, or let it mar or prevent pleasant and meaningful subsequent communication.

New and longterm, wishing you well, Ben
